Re: Rural Call Completion, WC Docket No. 13-39

Dear Ms. Dortch:

On November 3, 2014, Jeb Benedict, Mary Retka, Ken Shomaker, and Jason Topp of CenturyLink spoke by telephone with Randy Clarke, Richard Hovey, Daniel Kahn, and John Visclosky of the Wireline Competition Bureau. The purpose of the call was to discuss issues related to reporting of data for the FCC Order 13-135, Appendix C, in the above-captioned docket.

The Commission's rules (codified at 47 C.F.R. § 64.2101(h)) call for updated, annual lists of rural and non-rural Operating Company Numbers (OCN) from the National Exchange Carrier Association (NECA). CenturyLink and other service providers are to utilize these lists to determine whether particular calls are rural or non-rural for reporting purposes under the rules. In an October 10 telephone call (summarized in an October 15, 2014 ex parte letter), CenturyLink had raised some concerns about reporting of the data and, for long distance traffic, the need to know the coverage of particular OCNs. This is especially important where there are mismatches between NECA's listing of rural and non-rural OCNs and the Local Exchange Routing Guide (LERG) OCN data used for routing traffic. Since the October 10 conference call, CenturyLink had continued analyzing the data, striving to minimize the number of problem OCNs.

CenturyLink advised that the large majority of the NECA OCNs could be mapped appropriately, matching the LERG OCN information. For 100 cases where the NECA OCN did not match to the LERG 6 OCN, CenturyLink was able to match the NECA OCN to the LERG 6 OCN using the LERG 1 Overall OCN (OOCN). CenturyLink added that it has discussed this process with NECA representatives, who CenturyLink understood agreed with that approach to ensure accurate reporting. CenturyLink added that the NECA representatives had also said reporting carriers should use the NECA Combined Entity Company Code (CECC) in mapping the NECA OCN to the LERG 6 OCN. CenturyLink said it believes this approach is reasonable, and it encouraged the Commission to ensure all reporting entities receive clear instructions for mapping of OCNs necessary to report their long distance traffic consistently. CenturyLink recommended that the Commission's reporting instructions include not only the NECA OCN list but also the associated OOCN and NECA CECC.

CenturyLink explained that there were mismatches between the NECA OCN list (using the most recent list from NECA's website, dated February 13, 2014) and the LERG data in three categories. These were (1) missing designation or rural and non-rural, (2) border situations, and (3) OCNs that should not require reporting. CenturyLink provided the Bureau staff with a spreadsheet quantifying them, which it reviewed during the call.

Missing Designation of Rural and Non-rural. For these OCNs, CenturyLink walked through the first three pages of a spreadsheet: labeled "LERG 1 OCNs not on the NECA list," "LERG 6 OCNs not on the NECA list," and "Examples." CenturyLink pointed out that traffic to these OCNs will need to be reported, and thus a designation as "rural" or "non-rural" will need to be provided.

Border Situations. Where a covered area is multi-state, but the switch resides in one state, as shown in the LERG 6 switch CLLI code, or the location state in LERG 6 differs from the NECA OCN list, CenturyLink walked through the next two pages of the spreadsheet. CenturyLink said that clear instructions will be needed so that traffic to these locations is reported to the appropriate state. CenturyLink suggested that LERG 6 Location State and Switch CLLI information should be used to determine the appropriate state for that OCN.

OCNs that Should Not Require Reporting. CenturyLink next walked through the last page of the spreadsheet. These OCNs are for Canadian or Reserved Codes. These should be excluded from call completion reporting. CenturyLink suggested that this also be made clear in reporting instructions.

CenturyLink emphasized that, if these "mismatches" are not addressed, data could be reported inconsistently among service providers, could be left unreported, or could be reported incorrectly. These conditions could lead to wasted resources at regulatory authorities and providers through unnecessary investigations, and they could needlessly undermine confidence in reported data. By clarifying the appropriate way to handle such OCNs, the Commission can help all providers put in place processes that ensure call completion data is reported in an appropriate and uniform way.
